Landmarks & Residents

Many out-of-state visitors are surprised to discover that glaciers created Washington County, carving the landscape into a series of drift plains, rolling hills, and shallow valleys.

Pioneers were surrounded by prairie grasses and wildflowers that are still visible in over 2,100 protected acres.

Agriculture (corn, soybeans, pork, cattle, turkeys, sheep) remain the county's predominant economic activity.

We invite you to wind through the beautiful SE Iowa countryside and visit:

- Nationally known Amish Community of Kalona
- The Washington Historic District Including the Guinness World Record's Oldest Continuously Operating Movie Theatre and Tallest Corn Stalk.
- Stop by the friendly towns of Brighton, Riverside, Wellman, West Chester, Ainsworth, and Crawfordsville.

We're glad you're here in Washington County and hope your Barn Quilt Tour is a safe and enjoyable one.

The Project & Committee

Washington County's Barn Quilts have been the subject of many national publications, and in 2006, the Tourism Committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce suggested our county begin the process to show off our great countryside and corresponding barns. In 2007, a committee led by Terry & Julie Mangold (featured on the Agriculture Loop with Cows in the Pasture) began planning, identifying potential barns, and fundraising. The project divided the county into four loops, each with a name that announces a theme informing color and pattern selection. As many as 15-20 barn quilts would go up in one loop per year. While many of the loops are located on hard-surfaced roads, we invite you to cut across an unpaved road and even discover a new location.

Nature Loop

In 2009, the Nature Loop was developed with barn quilts representing nature themes in honor of Lake Darling and the country's numerous parks and recreational opportunities. Therefore the blocks on this loop feature patterns named from nature such as Flying Geese, Crossed Canoes, Bird's Nest and Flower Basket. When you travel this loop, take time to drive into Lake Darling State Park and see the barn quilt on the sign at the lodge parking area, Crossed Canoes.

Liberty Loop

The 2008 loop in the Southeast quadrant has a Liberty theme to acknowledge the Republican Party's origins in Crawfordsville, celebrated as the Birthplace of the Republican Party. This loop features a variety of patriotic-colored Barn Quilts and also winds through Washington, dubbed City of Flowers & Trees, and winds through the rolling, rural farm fields that includes the community of Wayland.

Amish Loop

The first loop to be developed (2007), in the Northeast quadrant, has an Amish theme to celebrate the Amish presence in the county. Most of these barn quilts are 'Amish' because of their dark, jewel-toned or clear-hued, solid colors. Not all barn owners chose Amish colors, and all of these quilt block patterns have been made by Amish and 'English' (the Amish word for other people) quilters alike. None of the barn owners on this loop are Amish; barn quilts are too worldly for the Amish.

Ag Loop

The Agricultural Loop passes through the northwest corner of Washington County. Because the county's dominate economic influence is based in agriculture, we honor that heritage in this loop, with quilt blocks featuring pattern names relating to agriculture. You will see quilt patterns named Rail Fence, Weathervane, Meadow Flower, Turkey in the Straw and Windmill to name a few. There are no particular color restrictions for this loop, so the traveler will see blocks with a variety of bright colors.
